Thanks for posting here where we can discuss.

That's very interesting what you found because I already did a check with edgeTop and had no success. From your post I understand you did? If so I have to check my experiment because I was doing it programmatically versus within the prefs, although it would not make sense .

I will try some further experiments. If this works I can probably do a printingtools preference that would apply to all printers, but I don't think I would be able to get these into the ui yet as that's really tight right now.

Anyway let's see what functions.
