

Let a and b be statements. Then the exclusive disjunction of a and b , written $a \oplus b$ holds iff a holds or b holds, but not both.

Some text, in which we use the macro $a \oplus b$. Clicking the \oplus should jump to the definition, but points to the smglom's definition hosted on mathhub.info instead.