What has been done:

The repository underwent a series of enhancements to improve its structure and documentation. A LICENSE file was ensured to be present, providing clarity on the legal use of the code. Community documentation files were added or updated, enhancing the repository's accessibility and engagement with its user base. Additionally, docstrings were added or updated throughout the source code, improving code readability and maintainability by providing clear explanations of the code's functionality. The project structure was reorganized to optimize its layout and improve navigation. An "About" section was added to the repository, offering a concise description of the project's purpose and scope. These changes collectively contributed to a more organized and user-friendly repository, facilitating better understanding and collaboration for current and future contributors.
