What? Why?

- Closes Replace wicked_pdf and wkhtmltopdf-binary gems #13547

Replace `wicked_pdf` and `wkhtmltopdf` with `ferrum_pdf` for PDF generation across invoices and reporting.

`wkhtmltopdf`, the underlying tool currently used for PDF generation, has been archived and is no longer maintained. While `wicked_pdf` is still actively maintained, there are currently no plans to move away from supporting `wkhtmltopdf`, which makes our current PDF stack a growing piece of technical debt.

Key changes:

- Remove `wicked_pdf` and `wkhtmltopdf-binary` dependencies.
- Introduce a dedicated `PdfRenderer` service using `FerrumPdf.render_pdf`.
- Replace invoice PDF rendering flow from `render_with_wicked_pdf` to `send_data`.
- Remove `wicked_pdf`-specific helpers and initializers.
- Replace `wicked_pdf_image_tag` with standard Rails `image_tag`.
- Simplify stylesheet handling since Ferrum resolves relative asset paths using `display_url`.
- Add Ferrum configuration for CI and Docker environments.

- Adjust PDF scale (0.85) to better match previous `wicked_pdf` output and reduce layout regressions.
- Add specs for the new rendering service and update invoice renderer specs.

This migration also removes several workarounds and monkey patches that previously existed to support `wkhtmltopdf` limitations.

What should we test?

- Visit the admin order invoice page and print/download invoices.
- Verify invoice PDFs render correctly for all types of invoice templates.
- Verify distributor logos render correctly in generated PDFs.
- Verify stylesheets and background colors are correctly applied in PDFs.
- Verify long invoices still paginate correctly and table headers behave as expected across pages.
- Verify reporting PDFs still generate correctly.
- Compare generated PDFs against previous `wicked_pdf` output for layout consistency and scaling.
- Verify other places from where we are generating PDFs if any

Dependencies

- Chrome needs to be present on servers for this to work. It's handled here: Install FerrumPDF browser dependencies ofn-install#1060

Prepare the environment for testing on AU

1. create a long list of products in an order to make a paginated invoice over 2 pages
2. check the distributors enterprise parameters : ABN and logo to be displayed on invoices

There is no logo on the invoice at the top right, but instead there is the name of order cycle, here so called "Toute l'année"

And it appears the same after the PR deployment

So I guess it is something to be fixed on Staging_AU
